22-25 February 2021

TV guide

@YouthSportTrust

Introduction

Welcome to all of our friends and colleagues

At the Youth Sport Trust we are determined to continue our support for teachers, senior leaders and young people at this challenging time.

With that in mind we have created a week of virtual, free to access CPD sessions for teachers and senior leaders to ensure that you get access to the best and most up to date advice and information to help you this term, whether delivering in school or remotely.

We have a wide range of workshops to choose from focused on three key themes:

Educated – Keeping children and young people physically educated

Active – Keeping children and young people physically Active

Connected – Keeping children and young people socially connected

You can find out how schools have been using resources developed by us and our partners to address the current challenges of delivering PE, physical activity and enrichment as well as spend time networking with colleagues.

The wellbeing of young people and staff is a concern for all of us and we don't want any school to feel like they face this challenge alone... Come and join us!

Monday 22

12:00-13:00 – YST members only

How to ensure your PE and school sport offer is inspiring, accessible and meaningful for all your pupils during this national lockdown period

This webinar will begin by sharing the landscape around how children and young people with SEND have been affected during the national and local lockdowns, and how PE and school sport can offer opportunities to rebuild, reconnect and support their recovery at home and in school. Throughout this webinar we will be highlighting best practice, exploring the importance of inclusive youth voice, and focusing on resources that are available to you that can support young people, not only in the classroom or the sports hall but also during their home learning experience.

Student voice is 'more important than ever' during the COVID-19 pandemic and in planning recovery from it

Never have young people's voices been so critical, yet so at risk of remaining unheard. Young people have a unique lived experience of being young during a global pandemic. Before we plan for their recovery we must listen to them so that together we get their return to school right first time. Hear ways schools have solicited youth voice as part of their COVID-19 recovery and top tips for engaging the voice of all young people.

Could sport sanctuaries in schools help young people recover from the impact of a pandemic?

In this session, Victoria Wells from the Youth Sport Trust, asks: Could sport sanctuaries in schools help young people recover from the impact of a pandemic? Taking ideas strongly allied to the five levers in the Recovery Curriculum, and at a time when Ofsted has published evidence indicating the mental distress and erosion of mental health in our children and young people, it is crucial to find ways that enable young people themselves to self-regulate their mood and rebuild their resilience. Exercise, for all of its well-known benefits, offers this at all levels for all learners.
